

AGENDA

IN SITU SESSION 2
CLIMATE ALLIANCE ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2017, ESSEN
21 SEPTEMBER 2017

In Situ session 2 – Transformation as an opportunity for adaptation

Essen, 21 September 2017, 10:45-13:00

See how Essen is using broader urban transformation processes as an opportunity to adapt to climate change and exchange with other municipal representatives on the subject.

Agenda

10:45- 11:00	Gathering in the foyer of HDT, picking up bikes
11:00-11:10	Introduction at Willy-Brandt Platz - Lea Kleinenkuhnen, Climate Alliance and Thomas Kleinebrahm, City of Essen
11:10-11:20	Bike ride to the University quarter Participants will be invited to ride in pairs and discuss the questions: Why did you choose this session? What are you most interested in? What is your level of knowledge on adaptation to climate change?
11:20 – 11:50	Tour and presentation University quarter: using urban transformation processes to prepare for the consequences of climate change- urban development, climate-ready new buildings, building standards for green roofs, green and blue infrastructure, Q&A - Thomas Kleinebrahm, City of Essen
11:50-12:10	Bike ride to Niederfeld lake with brief stop at the Krupp-park
12:10-12:20	Stop at the Niederfeld lake and introduction to the area
12:20-12:40	Presentation: Transformation as an opportunity for adaptation in Hagen- linking demographic change and adaptation - Fred Weber and Felix Othmer, City of Hagen
12:40-12:45	Closing - Thomas Kleinebrahm, City of Essen and Katrin Jurisch, Climate Alliance
12:45-13:00	Bike ride back to HDT, returning bikes