≡ FRANKFURT

The Frankfurt Food Council creates structures that make food production and consumption more regional. It calls for a municipal policy for a sustainable food system and supports the city of Frankfurt on its way to implementing the Urban Food Policy Pact.

Frankfurt Food Council

Main goals

The keyword is food sovereignty: citizens' right to healthy and sustainably produced food.

The idea of Food Councils is not new: in the English-speaking world, many Food Councils have already contributed to a turnaround of food policy at the local level. Food councils have also been established in other German cities or are about to start. Food councils are committed to a socially equitable and ecologically sustainable agricultural and nutritional transformation.
